Data sheet

Story: The place, the city, our island. A concept from which ideas start and return. Passing through the inspiration of Belgian tradition, in order to colour malts and hops with Sicilian notes.

The occasion? A meeting with Corrado Assenza and his historical Caffè Sicilia in Noto: from affinity to proposal. A highly perfumed invasion of plants, spices and herbs combined with the contamination of intuitions, suggestions and research to reinterpret our "wit".

Hence, immersed in a sensory garden of floral combinations, we retraced the ancient tradition of Northern Europe, adding colours and shades of Sicily to classic coriander: basil, lemon peel, ginger and Sicilian durum wheat flour Russello.

The wit blossomed in Trisca, a name recalling the dialect word and its elementary meaning, which pays homage to friendship, unity and understanding.

—In the county of Settebiddizzi the story is passed down from a very gallant King who married a fascinating Lady in spring. On a summer day, the couple got a son, who didn't excel in beauty none. He had such an ungraceful look in actual fact that his mother suggested he should novitiate.

But when, one day, the enemy threatened the reign, young Belcorno proved to be a worthy heir and hold the rein: armed with spears, with crossbows throws, the real crown of Trisca is shining with is his horns—
